

Scottish Small-bore Rifle Association
Newsletter
October, 1988.

A parting shot

Dear Member,

The last year has been eventful in many aspects that I find it difficult to place the events in any order. Perhaps I shall deal with our own achievements first.

The prize winners are all listed later in this newsletter and in the March issue. I would like to congratulate them all on their achievements, I also thank all those who participated in our events and did not win. Participation for most of you is your enjoyment and being ever hopeful of achieving greater heights.

The Mini-games this year were held in Guernsey. My wife and I joined the Scottish team as supporters. I congratulate Simon Riley on gaining a bronze medal in the Free Rifle event, taking on the Great Britain shooters fielded by England and Wales. Gordon Winch and Bill Hamilton finished each with 1 point off a bronze medal in the double English Match. No Scottish Team member was lower than eleventh place in any small-bore or Air Rifle event which is very creditable.

The Scottish Shooting Council of which we are a member changed its name to the Scottish Target Shooting Council to emphasise shooting at inanimate targets. It is working hard reaching a form of federation.

Last year I spoke at length on Federation and since then the STSC and its working party have met on at least 7 occasions. It has been spelled out by the Scottish Sports Council that the shooting bodies must Federate or they will lose their GRANT AID in 1989/90. Already some progress has been made by a joint grant aid submission. (The Treasurers of each governing body meeting jointly.) Here I would comment the sterling work our Treasurer, Lynda Marlow, has put in in connection with our finances. As you will know at our Special General Meeting at Wick our financial year has been changed to the year ending 30th September which brings it into line with the other bodies in the Scottish Target Shooting Council.

However the structure of Federation is causing much frustration particularly because of the SPA's intractability. There is much further work to be done before a formula is agreed.

The SSRA is still hamstrung by the NSRA declining any National recognition other than for selecting teams for the Home Countries International Matches. In other words, you have to affiliate to the NSRA but need only elect to join the SSRA. An informal meeting at Wick between your Office Bearers and Group Captain Dennis King failed to show any positive progress by NSRA to any form of Scottish devolution. Further attempts I hope will be made by your new Council. The Scottish Target Shooting Council is also taking up this matter. Despite the foregoing our membership increased during the year from 337 to 411.

Last year I referred to the possible constitutional alterations. The Council discussed proxy voting and postal ballots and decided that such were too cumbersome and expensive to operate with the present administration. Likewise a zone structure of regional committees and the addition of 2 more Zone members in the Council was rejected. However we have come to the conclusion that any person resident on Scotland should be entitled to be a member of the Association. This falls in line with the STSC proposed constitution and is similar to the Scottish Rifle Association membership. I hope you will support the proposal. You will observe that representation in matches where eligibility is not stipulated is restricted.

I repeat my strongly held view that clubs must attract and hold youngsters. In particular see that they are welcomed, given instruction, time on the range and generally allowed to develop. I would stress particularly that the senior members talk to them. You may ask what the SSRA policy towards juniors is. We do not have a junior membership. However our subscription is minimal.

Last year's AGM held the annual subscription at £2.00, the lowest in all the Scottish Shooting bodies. As I have already stated this body must be self supporting and not aided by generous donation. You will see the proposed subscription for 1988/89 is £3.50.

The Firearms Act has now been passed. Although some of the objections put forward by the Scottish Target Shooting Council have found favour much of the original proposals have been enacted. While some sections of the Shooting disciplines have been affected small-bore shooters have been left relatively alone.

Honorary Life Member Willie Beattie retired as the Scottish member of the Administrative Committee of the NSRA after many years of valuable service for which we thank him.

Honorary Life Member Adam Gordon withdrew from our Council last year only to channel his energy into a project to expand the Denwood range into a Sub-National facility. This has been approved by the Scottish Sports Council who have agreed to fund part of the expansion.

A second motion proposed by Council is that Honorary Life Membership be awarded to Alister Allan, in recognition of his "exceptional service to Scottish Shooting". Throughout his career as an International Marksman, Alister has been an excellent ambassador for Scottish Shooting. We congratulate him on winning the Silver Medal in the Free-rifle 3-P event at the Seoul Olympics.

I would like to commend to all members certain persons whose efforts would only be known to those attending the AGM.

Firstly, our Secretary, Anne Hamilton. Anne puts in a power of work producing minutes, newsletters and results, administering the membership register and mailshots, dealing with correspondence, representing the Association at many Shooting Council meetings, and sub-committee thereof, and has an extensive knowledge of shooting which is evident at SSRA competitions and was more so as she was Team Manager for small-bore and air rifle at the Mini-Games where her knowledge was constantly drawn upon by the local organisers even to the extent of her being elected to one of the juries.

Secondly, our Treasurer, Lynda Marlow, to whom I have already referred and who in addition to her accounting abilities has spoken eloquently on shooting matters at Council Meetings.

Thirdly, Council Member, Bob Normand, who is one of our delegates on the Scottish Target Shooting Council, Chairman of the Facilities Sub-committee thereof and Treasurer of the Scottish Sports Association, in which capacities he is consulted by the Scottish Sports Council on the planning and provision of sports facilities in Scotland. Bob is the one man who is dedicated to putting shooting on the map. He has made, and continues to make, a considerable contribution to Scottish Target Shooting and, in particular, to the promotion of Manor Powis as a National Target Shooting Facility.

Lastly, to all the Council members who gave their time and effort to the Association's business, I tender thanks on behalf of you all.

As I am stepping down from the Chairmanship at the AGM I would like to thank all members for their support of the SSRA. Particularly the increase in membership this year is very gratifying. I hope you will continue to encourage more to join as, in the eyes of Fund providers, politicians, police, etc, I am afraid numbers count if we are to wield any influence. You may be interested to know that in terms of individual members we are the second largest Shooting body in Scotland after the SCPA, who are not encumbered by the presence of any equivalent to the NSRA. If every shooter joined, we would be the largest by far.

Oh! what a lovely year!

Once more I was wishing I could do enough shooting to keep my eye in. It's definitely not what it should be and getting the old act together is hard work. This led me to look in my diary -- I almost wish I hadn't bothered --

7 SSRA Council meetings + 4 SSRA committee meetings + an SGM + an AGM + not a few Shooting Council meetings. Bob Normand and Stuart Guild were at many of those too.

Quite a few competitions and some matches, a bit of coaching.

This probably isn't a complete list either.

Why am I doing this? I cringe when I remember the last AGM, and the one before, when I dried up. I'm trying to write my report for the last year so that I don't have to dry up again and thought I'd copy the style of the SDO reports and there you have it. His report for two months is longer than this, but then it's his job. Besides that lot, I fit in the "paperwork", minutes, notices, newsletters, membership cards, stuff like that

Why do I do so much? You've got to be kidding - I'm selective. This could be at least a part time job for someone. It's certainly more than a spare time job. We need a Council that will work together as a team. It's the only way that much work can be done by spare time administrators.

Why do I do it at all? I try not to think about that too much. All the target shooting disciplines depend on volunteers who care about their sport to manage them and that's what I am. And I am not alone. A lot of the work is extremely rewarding because it involves working with other people with a similar fundamental objective - the good health of target shooting.

You learn a lot, too. The insights into the other target shooting disciplines and occasionally into other sports is always interesting, if not a little shattering, because you look again at your own sport with a new perspective.

Why do I compile newsletters the size of a small magazine? To try to keep members abreast of events in our sport, to update them on current affairs (Please don't pretend that politic-ing does not happen in our sport) and to pass on to our members some of these insights and the experience I've gained during my Secretaryship. Ours is a sport tailor-made for introspection but we must resist and look outward and forward.

I sincerely hope that, having taken the trouble to put the newsletters together, members then take the trouble to read them. I, for one, welcome constructive suggestions and criticism - such feedback from the readership is a most valuable measure of the grass roots feelings. Without it, how much more difficult it becomes for Council and the Office Bearers to serve the membership. A rub here is that, having elected a Council and Office Bearers and sent them into the world, the membership should at least listen to their advice and weigh their views and recommendations.

"Going out into the world" during the last 3 years has led me to alter some of my views since I first took office and I genuinely believe these changes are for the good of small-bore rifle but at times seeing the way forward is very difficult.

Membership

The SSRA membership has showed a healthy increase this year. However, we still need LOTS more members. We will continue to do so until we have recruited every small-bore target rifle shooter in Scotland. This is quite apart from any incentive to bring new participants in to the sport itself. The tragedy of our present situation is that the majority of Scottish small-bore target rifle shooters deny the need for a Scottish Governing Body. I know I am preaching to the converted but have to stress to you yet again the desperate need to enrol ALL SCOTTISH SMALL-BORE TARGET RIFLE SHOOTERS. We have comfortably passed the 400 mark but there are at least a couple of thousand more out there.

Council's motion for the AGM to broaden the membership base to all residents in Scotland leaves no excuse for anything less than 100% participant membership. Go for it!

Subscription

Council proposes that the subscription be set at £3.50. This is a 75% increase but compared with other sports bodies is still very modest fee. If this motion is successful at the AGM, we will still be seriously out of step with the other shooting bodies with which we are persuaded to federate and even now, when the shooting bodies Treasurers meet to prepare the budget for the joint grant aid application, it puts us at a disadvantage because of the difficulties that arise simply in covering our routine overheads without undertaking any development work.

In addition, shooters must ask themselves what representation they need, with the Police, the Army, the SHHD, the Home Office, the Scottish Office, Local Authorities, Shooting Councils, Sports Councils, Commonwealth Games Councils and so on. They must also ask how well these needs are being filled by the Scottish bodies and perhaps also by the British ones. They must also realise that representation at both levels is needed and that they should not turn their back on either one or the other. They will only get the representation they want by putting forward their views, opinions and wishes to their Office Bearers and Council Members. Finally, they must place a cash value on it and be prepared to stump up.

This Association must look ahead to the future, with or without federation, and look at the real costs of running and developing the sport.

Read "Secretary's Troubles" in the March Newsletter again - it still applies.

The costs to the Association of postage for notices and newsletters consumes a considerable portion of our subscription income. Posting on a club basis to correspondents reduces these costs but this may not be an acceptable measure for some members. Will members please note the item on the membership renewal and application form inviting those members who prefer individual posting of their mailshots to pay an individual postage supplement? Whether a member opts to pay the supplement or not, no member will be omitted from the mailing list.

Federation

The prospect of and planning for Federation is having a major impact on target shooting, both at Scottish and British levels. Shooters in all disciplines must look beyond "their own backyard". A natural reaction is to resist invasion but this must be controlled, balanced between the needs of the discipline per se, which must not be ignored, and the demands of the world outside, which can not be ignored and will not go away. With a little imagination, distinct advantages can be identified.

Federation will affect every target shooter in Scotland. It is vital that all shooters, not just SSRA members, take notice of the debate and give their reasoned views.

It is very sad to have to report that the Federation Working Party is making heavy weather of the various debates placed before it. This is due largely to what the Scottish Sports Council have labelled "organisational protectionism", or, according to Bob Normand, "intractable territorial difficulties". I do not believe that the SSRA has been a perpetrator of this practice. However, I believe the time is approaching fast when we must state our case clearly and categorically. We are at the point where our fairmindedness is leaving us subject to the impositions of others.

We look forward to welcoming Bob Aitken to the AGM not only as an individual member of this Association but also as Chairman of the Scottish Target Shooting Council and Chairman of the Federation Working Party.

Facilities

I won't say much here - Bob Normand, Chairman of the Shooting Council Facilities Subcommittee will address this subject. Very briefly, Manor Powis is looking brighter than at any other time and the Denwood improvement to Sub-national should be started soon.

Shooting Development Officer

Come to the AGM. I hope very much that Jonathan Nason will be present so that as many of you as possible may meet him. Jonathan is charged with development of target shooting. In particular he is looking at the pressure on our facilities and its impact on the sport.

In the absence of an appointed Team Manager this year, I've been performing the mechanics of organising most teams and reports on each match is included elsewhere in this newsletter.

Caithness gift of Veteran's trophy

Finally Caithness Small-bore Rifle Association have returned their share of the proceeds of the Wick Meeting Racenight to the SSRA to provide a Veteran's Trophy for the Medal Competition. This will be presented for the first time for this winter's Competition.

I'd like to say how much I appreciate the help and support of all the Council and Members I've worked with this year. They are the backbone of this Association. There are too many to name individually and this report is quite long enough. Thank you and I hope you all come back next year.

Report ends,

Anne.

Mini-Games 1989 Commonwealth Games 1990 Trials and Selection

This was a subject of much debate at the last Council Meeting which followed soon after the success of Alister Allan at the Olympic Games, taking 5th place in the English Match and the Silver Medal in the 3-P.

The 1989 Mini-Games will be held in Wales in September with the Commonwealth Games in January 1990.

Council agreed that the selection procedure for the Mini-Games shall be as follows :

5th and 6th August, 1989 (proposed), Linwood, an English Match and 3-P Match each day, with 15 trialists in the English Match comprising the leading 10 in the Grand Prix order of merit after 3 events (Denwood, Linwood and Caithness) plus 5 others invited by the Selection Committee and with 12 trialists in the 3-P match comprising the leading 8 in the 3-P Grand Prix order of merit after 3 events plus 4 others invited by the Selection Committee.

The team to represent Scotland in the Mini-Games English Match will be the leading 4 aggregate scores in the trial.

The team to represent Scotland in the Mini-Games 3-P Match will be the leading 2 aggregate scores in the trial. Two further team places may be filled from the trial subject to the shooters meeting a standard of 1120 in the trial. The Selection Committee will inspect the range conditions at the start of each trial and may announce a lower standard. In the event of the 3rd and 4th team places not being filled from the trial, shooters achieving scores above the standard at other open competitions of a suitable standing may be considered.

Council agreed that the selection procedure for the Commonwealth Games shall be as follows :

The Selection Committee will consider performances recorded at the Mini-Games Championships and other individuals exceptional past and present performances for the Commonwealth Games team.

The Selection Committee will meet as soon as possible after the Mini-Games championships.

Disappointing scores this year were entirely attributed to the ambient temperature at Linwood. It was extremely cold, attacking the extremities and particularly the trigger finger. Opinions were given on the kneeling position that a combination of pins and needles and imminent frostbite was a most peculiar sensation. We sincerely hope spring will arrive somewhat earlier next year.

The 1988-89 SSRA Training Squad

The SSRA training squad will meet at least 4 times this winter at Meadowbank Stadium on 4th December, 22nd January, 12th February and 5th March for training in the indoor 50 metre range hall in three-positional and prone shooting, backed up with "class" work on specific aspects of technique, mental training and match preparation. Additional sessions may be held at other training venues.

Nominations and applications to join the training squad should be made to the Secretary, Anne Hamilton, or to the Squad Coordinator, Cyril DeJonckheere.

As in previous years, the emphasis remains on developing shooters who show commitment and potential.

A fortnight after the 3-P championship and it was still darned cold.

As set out in the invitations to 3-P trialists, a required standard score of 1120 was set by the Selection Committee for 3rd and 4th team places which, due to adverse conditions on the Saturday, was lowered to 1100 but was retained on the Sunday. Therefore Simon Riley and John Millar gained places in the team.

Stuart and Fiona Guild

Due to unforeseen business, Bob Normand was unable to take his place in the party as section leader i/c small-bore and air rifle. Anne Hamilton stepped in but, as she was already allocated a place in the party as travelling supporter and as it was too late to cancel Bob's travel and accommodation arrangements without penalty, it was decided at the last minute to invite Bill Murray into the Free-Rifle Match team. Fortunately, he was able to join the party at short notice.

The team travelled by air to Guernsey on Thursday, 12th, from Edinburgh and Glasgow via Heathrow with John Miller and Bill Murray joining the party at Heathrow. Both flights were rather full but, apart from an over-zealous Customs Officer at Heathrow who decided to check all the rifles for export to Guernsey, all went smoothly. The Customs Officer gave up after the second rifle case.

The party arrived in Guernsey in the late afternoon to be allocated cars after a few minor hiccoughs. With Stuart and Fiona Guild, offering space in their own rented car, all the people and baggage made it to La Hougue Fougue Hotel in good time to get ready for the 'Vin D'Honneur' reception for the teams at the Beau Sejour Leisure Centre in St Peter Port.

After the reception, team members headed for a meal while team managers and section leaders headed for the technical meetings held at the Guernsey Rifle Club clubrooms in St Peter Port.

Friday, Fort Le Marchant.

The range for the small-bore rifle and free pistol events was a temporary one built on the full-bore range. This introduced one or two complications into the match schedule. The firing point was constructed of scaffolding with a platform of planks covered by large sheets of chipboard and was enclosed with various forms of sheeting on top, at the rear and at the ends. Considering the construction, this was found to be AMAZINGLY stable. It was agreed that no one, including the range officers, would go onto the platform while the match was in progress. The spacing on the firing point and at the targets was adequate but not over-generous.

The match commenced in good time and in conditions of good light and gentle breezes, the sort of conditions for which trials and training at Linwood in April leave one completely unprepared. As the match progressed, the temperature gradually dropped and the wind gradually turned and picked up but remained within the bounds of what should be readable from the non-U.I.T. but adequate wind flags. By the end of the match it was getting positively cool.

All team members seemed to be missing a spring in their step, possibly a result of the previous day's journey. Nonetheless, the team all performed creditably in the top half of the competition, all breaking the 1100 barrier and Simon Riley taking the bronze and breaking up the dominating pack of GB shooters representing England and Wales.

A factor which had a major influence on these championships in all rifle events proved to be the lack of World Cup events, leaving GB team members at liberty to come to these Championships and thus considerably raising the standard.

A two-hour break between the Free Rifle Match and the first English Match which was appreciated by the Jury, which included Anne, as well as by those competitors shooting in both competitions.

By the start of the first of English Match, the wind had stiffened to come off the sea bringing with it some fog which reduced visibility to approximately 200 yds. The targets at 50 metres appeared to be shades of grey rather than black and white, with patchy fog banks passing across the range periodically. This was more like home.

At the end of the first match, which was relatively low scoring due to the conditions, again the effect of travel and a long wait for the start of the match late in the afternoon, all four Scots were well placed from 3rd on 589 to 7th place on 587, and any one of them capable of bridging the gap to the leader on 592.

To round off the day, most team members made a trip to Cobo to inspect the Air Weapons range and for the air rifle team to put in some practice. The range was found to be a good club facility but with two unfortunate features. First the lighting was very bright on the target but very dim at the firing point and down the range, which created more severe difficulties for the Air Pistol match to follow. Second the bench was the highest yet seen by any team members and positioned some 6cms forward of the firing line and required some competitors to modify their loading technique.

Saturday, at Cobo, saw the first two members of the air rifle team in action, Bill Murray first on the 9 a.m. squad and Simon on the 11.30 a.m., both firing 563 with a most noticeable dip in the fifth string when the incoming squad arrived and the noise and activity level in the hall, open to the firing line area, increased substantially.

Saturday afternoon gave everyone a chance to see the sights, shop and catch up with the full-bore at Fort Le Marchant. Some team members tested the pool at the hotel, which was found to be warm enough for Scots to swim. Alasdair Horne also gave a diving display.

Sunday morning was the only morning when the small-bore team lay abed thinking of the full-bore shooters out at Fort Le Marchant at 8 a.m. After breakfast, the team members made their way at a leisurely pace to the range for the second English Match at 2.30 p.m. while Robin and Peter headed for Cobo for the 2 p.m. and 4.30 squads.

The full-bore final had been extended to accommodate a tie shoot and the free pistol event had also over run so the second English Match started considerably later than advertised. However, everyone was present when required and the match got under way at approx 3.30.

This time the light was excellent, the day was warm (sunburn registered on Bill Murray's anatomy while spectating) with the wind gusting off the sea towards the firing point. This second match produced higher scores and all the Scotland team members again shot very well, with Gordon Winch and Bill Hamilton both finishing one point off the bronze medal and with 4th man still in the top ten.

Meanwhile, back at Cobo, Robin had suffered the same disturbances towards the end of his match to finish on 569 and Peter Gray, in the last squad, fired an excellent 572. These scores put Peter and Robin in 5th and 6th place behind the GB men while Simon and Bill were 10th and 11th maintaining the standard that no one in the small-bore or rifle events had finished out of the top half of the entry.

A weekend of excellent shooting from the whole team of a standard which must form a solid base for the 1990 Commonwealth Games.

Well done, Simon, adding a bronze to his collection and better luck next time, Gordon and Bill.

Thanks indeed must go to everyone in the team. This was a very happy team which worked well and got on well together. This must have been a factor in the solid performances all round.

The next Mini-Games will be centred on Swansea in Wales between the 8th and 10th September, 1989.

Cyril De Jonckheere travelled as Team Manager to the Ulster Games, sponsored by Dale Farm Dairies. Having come close to qualifying for the team, Cyril was also to shoot as an individual.

===== THE WICK REPORT

The 1988 Scottish Meeting was held in Caithness after a number of setbacks, all of which were gradually overcome largely due to the determination of the members of the Caithness Small Bore Rifle Association and their dedication to the sport. The last time any similar meeting was held in Caithness was sixty years ago.

It was a very great sadness for everyone who worked with the Caithness organising team to learn of the sudden death of Sandy MacDonald. As he would have wished, the team, including his wife Jean, worked on to produce an excellent Scottish Championships.

For the International Match, Jean was selected as Scotland Team Captain, both in recognition of her own considerable contribution to shooting and to honour Sandy. Having brought the meeting to the point of 'take-off', Jean assumed sentry duty at the secure store provided for competitors' equipment. This highly successful Caithness innovation was repeated at the National Meeting at Bisley. Jean was supported by Jim Manson as Secretary. Jim, a 'well-kent' face to all who have visited the Caithness Open meetings, worked on the site preparation team before the start of the meeting and continued to work during the meeting on the range staff.

Scotland Ladies Team Captain was Cathie Simpson, alias Hugh's wife and t'other Hugh's Mum, who headed up the team in perhaps the most vital componenet of any Scottish Meeting, the tea tent. Joan Bruce, another worker behind the scenes, emerged only once during the meeting from behind the score sheets in Stats to serve as Ladies Team Secretary.

Jean, Jim, Cathie and Joan would all demur at being singled out for their part in the undoubted success of the Meeting. Such is the spirit which is the strength of our sport in Caithness.

For the International matches, the best that could be said of the conditions was that the fog stayed out at sea. The benefits of a tarmac firing point as opposed to the more usual grass at Scottish Meetings was evident. WHJ Mitchell, in the team for the first time at the Scottish Meeting produce the top score in the winning team.

The 1988 Freuchie Knock-out Championship

This competition was shot on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at lunchtime, with the finals on the Thursday at 5 p.m. The Thursday lunchtime semi-final was a casualty of the haar but was completed in plenty of time for the afternoon squadding.

WF Hamilton received the Wilkinson Sword and a bottle of malt whisky and finalists JR Buchanan and CWC Ogle received a bottle of whisky. AJ Sinclair received the Sgian Dubh and a bottle of whisky and J Eccles and W Gray received half bottles of whisky.

The last nine fought it out as follows :

The 1988 Sponsored Shoot

was fired on the Tuesday afternoon with 32 shooters taking part. All participants had been very successful in finding sponsors which made this year's event a promising fundraiser. As in previous years, this unusual form of shooting, where X, A & B shooters are awarded 2 points for a 10 and 1 point for a 9 and C & D shooters are awarded 2 points for a 10 or 9 and 1 point for an 8 or 7, with 10 minutes allowed for a maximum of 50 shots, produced some excellent results.

The best shooter prize, 500 Tenex most generously donated by Eley, went to K Carman of Dollar (15 bulls, 26 9's, 6 8's and 3 7's), scoring 91 points in the C & D category. Best X, A & B scores on 85 points came from CG DeJonckheere (Dumfries) (37 bulls and 11 9's) and J Lavety (Portlethen) (35 bulls and 15 9's). J Lavety enjoyed the distinction of being the only shooter in the X, A & B category to score points with every shot. P Oatley from St Andrews also scored 85 in the C & D category. All three runners-up received a bottle of whisky.

Presentation of the prizes from the Freuchie and Sponsored Shoot were made at the highly successful Racenight, which was arranged on the Thursday in close cooperation with the Caithness Association.

A share of the proceeds from the Racenight, presented to the Caithness Association will be used to provide a trophy for a veteran's class in the SSRA Medal competition.

WILL ANY MEMBERS STILL TO MAKE THEIR RETURNS FOR THE SPONSORED SHOOT TO JACK LAVETY PLEASE DO SO AS SOON AS POSSIBLE?

Fiocchi Inter Region Match

The Fiocchi Inter Region match was held on the Saturday at the start of the National Meeting. The match was instigated to promote the Regional Squads and to encourage team shooting. At rather short notice, Scotland fielded two prone teams and one 3-P team.

First prize was a supply of ammunition provided by the match sponsors, Fiocchi. Scotland 'A' took second place in the prone competition by one point!

The SSRA Secretary who assisted with the match organisation was presented with some Fiocchi ammunition which she was delighted to pass on to some junior shooters from Edinburgh who were attending their first National Meeting.

Linwood Rifle Club

Polar Bear 50m (Outdoor!) Winter League, 1988-89

Outdoor enthusiasts and other gluttons for punishment are cordially invited to participate in this league for Individuals/Pairs (to be decided). Linwood Rifle Club are laying insulating material on the firing point and building partitions at the front of the firing point for added comfort. The facilities at Linwood may be made available for a modest sum to clubs who do not have their own range.

Bisley Report by Special Correspondent : A Duffer

The Bisley small-bore rifle meeting was just short of a record entry but this was in no way attributable to an upsurge of attendance from Scotland. Only around thirty Scots travelled south for the week, but this disappointment was in some way offset by the good performances of so many of our number. For almost a whole week a strong, gusty wind and bright sunlight conspired to thwart the ambitions of our stalwart band and full credit must go to those who kept their heads when all around were firing 8's, 7's or worse.

Lord Roberts British Championship

Gordon Winch, George Mortimer, Robin Law and Bill Hamilton successfully reached the final stage in this, the blue riband event of the meeting. They finished in the above order and all performed admirably. The championship was won by N Braisher of Havant with a score of 191 ex 200 in a tie shoot in the most atrocious conditions.

The Grand Aggregate

The struggle between Cliff Ogle and Gordon Winch was well reported by the National Press, so suffice to say that Gordon's "wheels came off" in the last 100 yard shoot in appalling conditions. Cliff's didn't and so he won his first Grand Aggregate. Gordon had to be content with 3rd, but in consolation won the Wilkinson Sword for the best combined score in the Roberts and Aggregate.

Other individual successes during the week came to the S.S.R.A. Secretary, Anne Hamilton, who won the squadded Comp 4 in 'A' Class, Hugh Simpson Jnr who won the Life and Annual trophy and Bill Murray who won the Daily Telegraph trophy.

3-Positional Shooting

Bill Murray and Simon Riley were placed in the top 10 in the 3 x 40 competition. Peter Gray won 'C' class in both 3-P competitions, i.e. the 3 x 20 and the 3 x 40, and D class 3 x 40 was won by Mike Carson.

Team Competitions

E.U. Alumni again more than held their own with the top teams in the country. Their best performance was in the Spooner cup when they shot a new British Record for a team of 4. The Bank Centenary Plate and the Guissepi trophy also came their way.

Dewar Match

Robin Law, Simon Riley and Bill Hamilton all represented Great Britain in the match v. U.S.A. The team all shot steadily to produce a score of 107 off ex 8000, just seven points adrift of the U.S.A.'s 100 off.

Home Countries Internationals

To look on the bright side, the Scotland team beat N. Ireland, Wales and Jersey. On the other hand we were soundly thrashed by a very strong England team.

The Scotland ladies also put up a good show in the face of an X & A class England ladies team. For full reports and pictures, the 'Rifleman' will no doubt produce the goods.

In spite of the wind, a strong esprit de corps was apparent and it was because of this that those who blew out will be back for more next year, hopefully as part of a larger contingent. It is perhaps in order to urge club secretaries and officials to promote all open rifle meetings, especially to their younger and more inexperienced members, with special reference to the fact that there are almost always 4 or 5 classes. Without a healthy feed from the lower classes the standard of shooting in Scotland will surely suffer. It's up to you to fill the ranges.

Winter Competitions 1988-89

Entry forms for the coming indoor seasons competitions accompany this newsletter and include all our usual competitions, with the addition of a veteran section in the Medal/Salvers competition.

Last years C & D Speedway final was highly successful and will be repeated this year.

The Indoor Match-play League will also be run again and we look forward to your support in this competition.

Scotland v North Island, New Zealand.

Bob Normand scored the Scotland team targets this year and gave us a team total of 115 off 6000, picking up a five points on the estimates made at the time of shooting.

North Island have shot their leg of the New Zealand match but the result has not arrived at this end yet. When it does arrive, the result will be published at the first opportunity.
